University Governance

Encompassing committees, policies and processes, and legislative compliance, the University's governance and ethical environment is grounded within a framework that fosters accountable, consistent and transparent decision making.

There are a number of legislative instruments that apply to the University's functions and operations. Information about the legislative instruments applicable to the University can be found at: uow.edu.au/about/governance/legislation. Though not exhaustive, the site provides information on the instruments of legislation that have a significant role in the University's management and functions.

The University of Wollongong Act 1989 (NSW) establishes the University and provides for its governance. The University of Wollongong By-Law 2005 (NSW) provides for detailed requirements in relation to certain matters contained in the University of Wollongong Act 1989 (NSW).

Under the University of Wollongong Act 1989 (NSW), the University Council ("Council") is the governing authority of the University. Council acts for and on behalf of the University and controls and manages the University's affairs and concerns.

As Council is unable to make all the decisions necessary to run a large and complex organisation like a University, the University of Wollongong Act 1989 (NSW) allows Council to delegate all or any of its functions (except its power of delegation) to any member or committee of Council or to any authority or officer of the University or to any other person or body prescribed by the University of Wollongong By-Law 2005 (NSW).

University Council has established a number of committees which perform specific functions, consider detailed issues and make recommendations to Council.

UNIVERSITY COMMITTEES

The Academic Senate is established under the University of Wollongong Act 1989 (NSW) and is the principal academic body of the University, having responsibility for advising the University Council and the Vice-Chancellor on matters relating to teaching, scholarship, research and related activities in accordance with these terms of reference.

The Finance and Infrastructure Committee ("FIC") is a formally constituted committee of University Council with particular responsibility for advising Council on the University's financial and infrastructure sustainability strategies. The FIC is responsible for assuring oversight of the University's operational policies and is the Executive Committee of Council, delegated to take action on urgent issues between Council meetings.

UNIVERSITY OF WOLLONGONG AUSTRALIA

The Risk, Audit and Compliance Committee ("RACC") is a formally constituted committee of the University Council. RACC has a particular responsibility to assist and advise Council in fulfilling its corporate governance and independent oversight responsibilities in relation to the University's management of risk, compliance with legislation and standards, its internal control structure and audit requirements, and its external reporting responsibilities. This function is provided under the authority of, and in accordance with, the University of Wollongong Act 1989 (NSW).

Information about the University Council and its committees is available at: uow.edu.au/about/governance/governance-structure/university-council. The website lists the terms of reference, including its membership, of each Council committee. Generally, Council committee membership is made up of Council members, and in some cases, academic staff members of the University who are appointed to the committee by Council on the recommendation of the Vice-Chancellor, and in other cases, professional staff officers, depending on the issues of the committee.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES

The University's policies govern the University's decision-making and outline the rights, privileges, benefits, obligations, and penalties to which the University community may be entitled, eligible, liable or subject to.

Policy documents may contain:

- interpretation, rules, guidelines, statements of policy, practices or precedents;

- particulars of any administrative scheme.

- manner of administration of any legislative instrument or administrative scheme; or

- procedures for investigation of any contravention of any legislative instrument or administrative scheme.

A complete list of the University's policy documents is located on the Policy Directory.

Organisational Structure

Whilst the University Council is responsible for the oversight and stewardship of the University, the University's day to day business is managed by the Vice-Chancellor and President and the Senior Executive.

The Vice-Chancellor and President is the principal executive officer of the University and has the following functions conferred under section 12 of the University of Wollongong Act 1989 (NSW):

(i)   promote and further the development and interests of the University including, but without limiting the generality of this clause, the welfare of staff and students;

(ii) be responsible to Council for the general, academic, administrative, financial and other business of the University;

(iii) exercise a general supervision over all staff and students of the University;

(iv) do all things ancillary to those functions referred to (i), (ii) and (iii);

(v) exercise such functions and authority as may from time to time be delegated by the Council; and

(vi) by virtue of the office of Vice-Chancellor, be a member of any board, committee or faculty within the University and, unless the Council determines otherwise, may preside at a meeting of any such board, committee or faculty.

The University's organisational structure webpage at uow.edu.au/about/our-people/organisational-structure provides details of the following organisational charts:

- UOW Governance Organisational Chart provides information on the University's governing authority, University Council, along with its various committees and advisory groups which together enable effective decision-making and oversight of activities across the University;

- UOW Organisational Chart provides details of the University's operational management structure;

- UOW Faculty Organisational Chart;

- UOW Controlled Entities Organisational Chart.

Additional information relating to the University's controlled entities can be found at the following sites:

- UOW Global Enterprises at: uowenterprises.com.au
- UOW Pulse at: pulse.uow.edu.au

Details of senior university officers can also be found on the 'Leadership' section of the University website. The University's senior officers are the guiding force behind the University's commitment to progress, accountability and excellence.

How the University engages with the public and its stakeholders

The University actively seeks to connect people, cultures and global communities and uses its website and social media channels to communicate and promote the University's vision and strategy and to encourage public participation in its decision-making.

Apart from the formal structures for participation in decision-making, the University is always pleased to receive petitions, submissions, proposals or suggestions on any matters pertaining to the functions of the University from individuals, groups or organisations.

THE UNIVERSITY WEBSITE

The University website is the University's primary channel to actively engage and communicate with its staff, students and members of the public. It provides a vast range of information, resources, policies, news, events and initiatives.

The University is committed to making its website accessible to all people regardless of their ability and environment. The University welcomes feedback on the accessibility of our website at Feedback - University of Wollongong – the University

Members of the public are able to access key information via the website's Quick Links page, which includes a link to the University's Contacts section. This section provides access to contact details for:

- Student enquiries (both current and future students)
- the University switchboard
- Contact Directory based on specified search fields
- Research enquiries
- Media enquiries
- Alumni engagement
- the University's campuses
- Various University directories
- More University contacts such as the library, IT Services, student support services, sports and recreational facilities and employment opportunities.
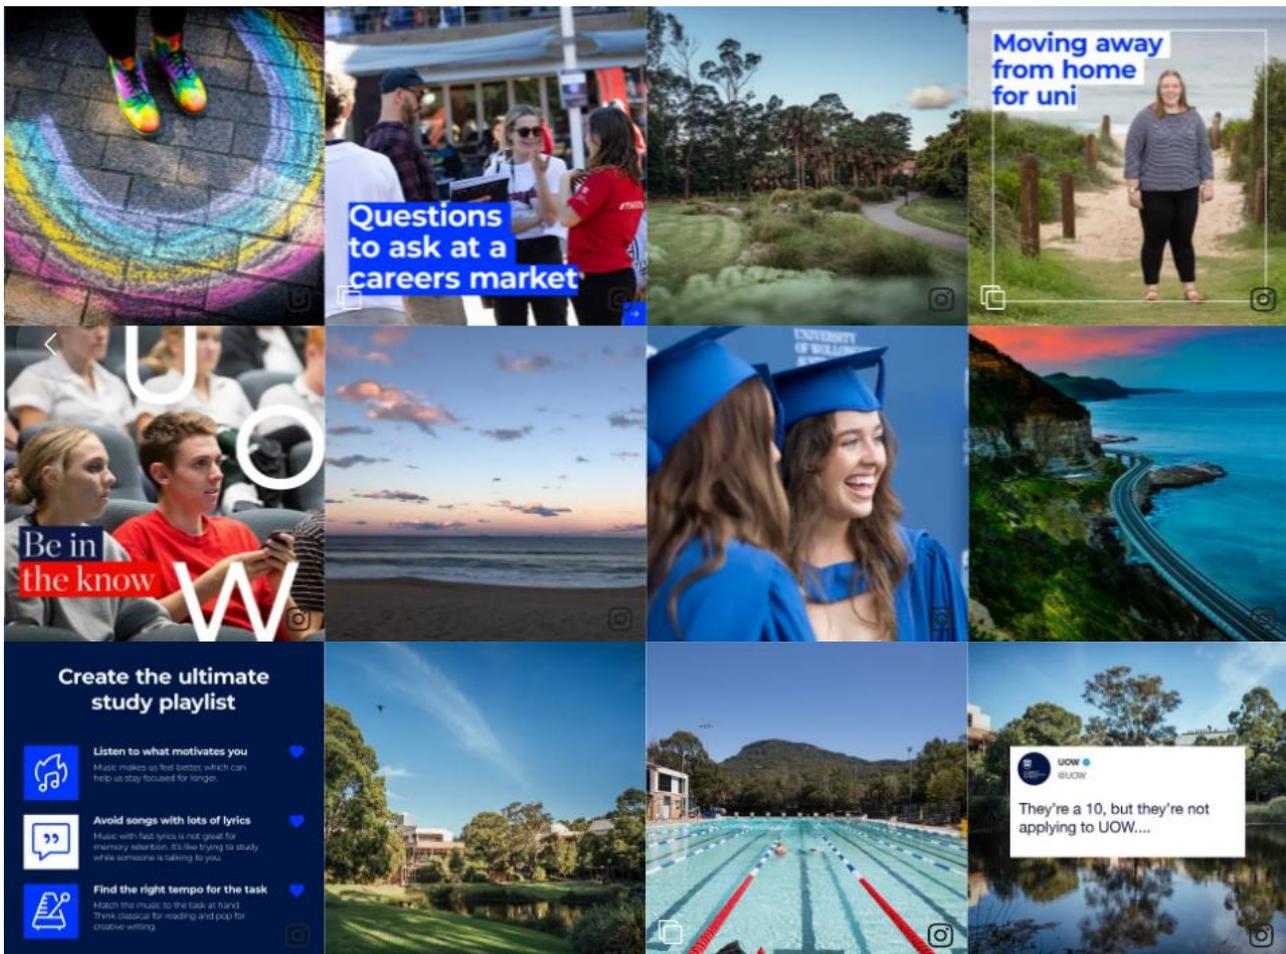

SOCIAL MEDIA

The University uses a range of social media channels to facilitate an open forum to engage with its audiences and for audiences to engage with each other.

UNIVERSITY
OF WOLLONGONG
AUSTRALIA

The University welcomes comments and posts on its social media sites as a forum for the public, staff, students and alumni to contribute their thoughts about University news and to participate in civil conversations about topical issues. Social media accounts are actively monitored during business hours for comments, questions and feedback with an aim to respond to those enquiries within 24 hours with further information and support. Any feedback is also shared with relevant University business units for their information and action where required.

The University's official social media channels include:

— Facebook

— Instagram

— LinkedIn

— X

— YouTube

— TikTok

— Snapchat

MYUOW UNIVERSITY APP

The MyUOW mobile app is a way for University students, staff and guests to stay connected to what's happening at the University. MyUOW is free to download from the app store and is available on both Apple iOS and Android devices.

MyUOW provides easy access to resources, information and functions while on the go, ranging from access to the latest news, events and opportunities to maps and learning resources. Features in the app allow customisation of message feeds by subscribing to channels that are relevant to the individual.

PARTICIPATION IN THE UNIVERSITY'S GOVERNANCE

Opportunities exist for staff, students and members of the community to participate in all facets of the governance of the University through its Council, committees, advisory groups and forums.

The University values the participation of both staff and students in its decision making. Each year, the University hosts elections for a number of staff and student positions on governance bodies to ensure that all perspectives are considered.

The University Council consists of 17 members in the following categories:

UNIVERSITY OF WOLLONGONG AUSTRALIA

- 3 Ex-Officio Positions: Chancellor; Vice-Chancellor; Chair of Academic Senate

- 2 members appointed by the NSW Minister for Education

- 7 members appointed by the Council

- 2 members elected by and from the Academic Senate of the University

- 1 member appointed by the Council from the graduates of the University

- 2 members elected by and from the Students of the University: 1 undergraduate student elected by and from the undergraduate students of the University; and 1 postgraduate student elected by and from the postgraduate students of the University.

Council meetings are open to members of the University on request. Members of the University who wish to attend a Council meeting should contact the Governance Unit at governance@uow.edu.au at least 2 weeks prior to the meeting. Council Meeting Summaries can be found at the following site: https://www.uow.edu.au/about/governance/governance-structure/university-council/

The Vice-Chancellor arranges for decisions of Council to be reported publicly whenever this is appropriate.

Advisory groups to the Vice-Chancellor have been established to share important information across a range of matters that refine and focus on the University's strategic direction and provide a forum for open discussion. These groups include the University Leadership Group, the Performance and Expenditure Group and the Rankings & Strategy Advisory Group.

Students have a range of opportunities to actively engage with the University as a student representative. For example, the Student Advisory Council ("SAC") was formed in 2018 to provide the University greater ability to hear and respond to the wider student voice. SAC provides a forum where student representatives are able to proactively engage with one another to formulate common and group-specific student issues for presentation to the University. SAC is actively involved in University matters affecting the academic and social wellbeing of students including its policies, procedures, student service delivery and expenditure of student service and amenities funds by the University. Additional information on student representation groups is available at https://www.uow.edu.au/student/representatives/

Policy documents which are under review or development are published on the web for consultation purposes. Members of the public can provide comments on draft policies prior to their approval via the UOW Policy Directory Bulletin Board.

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

UNIVERSITY
OF WOLLONGONG
AUSTRALIA

The University has a long and proud history of engaging with its multiple communities to enrich and enhance the student experience, research, teaching and learning. The University remains committed to playing an active role in advancing and championing environmental, cultural, social and economic developments in its communities.

The University's dedicated Community Engagement team, as part of the Advancement Division, is committed to facilitating mutually beneficial connections between our communities and the University.

The University's Engage with Us page provides details of the various ways that the University engages with a range of stakeholders both domestically and globally and includes opportunities to:

- Volunteer
- Give to the University
- Visit the University,
- Gain employment (either at the University) or via student recruitment programs
- Take part in Outreach and School Programs (and also includes teacher professional development programs)
- Be part of the University alumnus global community
- Apply for grants and funding

The University seeks to build strong communities facilitated by the Community Investment Program. The Program aims to play an active role in advancing and championing social, cultural, environmental and economic developments in our region with a view to drive innovation resulting in change that has an impact.

The Community Engagement Grants Scheme offers a series of annual grants, which are open to University staff in the area of educational, research or outreach projects, in partnership with community organisations and groups.

The Vice-Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Community Engagement was established in 2006 to recognise, reward and encourage exceptional community engagement, external relations, excellence in media communications and/or outreach by our dedicated staff.

UNIVERSITY
OF WOLLONGONG
AUSTRALIA

Industry Engagement at the University has been made possible by the University's world-class Research and Development collaboration.

The University has a proven track record of efficiently securing government grants with industry partners.

The Innovation and Commercial Research Unit provides expert advice on funding options, application processes and expected timelines. Some of the funding opportunities from government that have led to effective collaborative research can be found at: Funding opportunities - University of Wollongong – UOW

The University's iAccelerate Program is a unique business accelerator and incubator program at the University, where startups, scaleups, social enterprises and intrapreneurs thrive, supported by robust education, mentoring, seed funding and unparalleled access to world class research knowledge.

FEEDBACK AND COMPLAINTS

The University promotes and encourages feedback and input from its stakeholders and the public.

The University has an extensive program of surveys for staff, students and the community to gain feedback in relation to its functions and activities.   For example, students are actively encouraged to provide feedback on aspects of their learning and teaching. Further information can be found at Student Feedback Surveys page. This webpage also provides details of national student experience and graduate outcomes surveys.

The University's dedicated 'Have your say' webpage provides details of the different channels available for staff, students and members of the community to submit feedback or lodge a complaint.

UNIVERSITY OF WOLLONGONG AUSTRALIA

Feedback can also be provided by using the contact details outlined in the 'Contact the University' section of this Guide.

All feedback and complaints received by the University are treated in a confidential manner and any personal information is managed in accordance with the University's obligations under the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998 (NSW) and the Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002 (NSW). Further information about the University's commitment to complying with its privacy obligations can be found in the University's Privacy Management Plan. Individuals also have the option of submitting feedback anonymously.

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

The University has established an Artificial Intelligence (AI) Working Group to identify the risks, opportunities, and action plans for the use of AI in the University context. This working group seeks to address AI from an academic, professional, and student perspective. As AI technologies continue to evolve, the University remains committed to applying a proactive and informed approach when adopting this new technology. Visit UOW's AI and academic integrity webpage for additional information.

How to access information held by the University

The University is bound by the State Records Act 1998 (NSW) in the creation, management and protection of its records. Records exist in relation to the University's business activities and include information as outlined in this Guide and on its website.

Under the GIPA Act, there are four avenues which the public may access information held by the University unless there is an overriding public interest against disclosure. These include via:
- Open access information
- Proactive release of information
- Informal access request
- Formal access application

Visit the University's Access to Information webpage for further information.

OPEN ACCESS INFORMATION

Information classified as open access information is the type of information that the University is required to make available to the public, free of charge unless it is not in the public interest to do so. This includes:

- this Agency Information Guide;
- policy documents, available in the University's Policy Directory;
- documents about the University tabled in the NSW Parliament (such as the University's Annual Report)
- disclosure log of access applications that the University considers to be in the broader public interest;
- a register of contracts entered into by the University in which the University spends, or is likely to spend, over $150,000.

Visit the University's Open Access Information section on the Access to Information webpage for further details.

PROACTIVE RELEASE OF INFORMATION

The University is required to have a program for the proactive release of information it holds. The University reviews its proactive release program at intervals of not more than 12 months as required under the GIPA Act, this is reviewed annually.

The University's current program for the proactive release of information involves:

UNIVERSITY
AUSTRALIA

- reviewing the types of information requested by the public, both informally and formally, to assess whether it may be of interest to the public generally;
- regularly promoting and actioning feedback from staff, students and members of the public via its surveys, helpdesks and various social media channels;
- promoting release of University information across its business units.

The University routinely publishes a range of information that may be of interest to the public, free of charge on its website, unless there is an overriding public interest against disclosure.

For example:

- The University's key publications and organisational information, are available electronically, free of charge to the public, via the University's website and include:

  - University Handbook
  - University Council Meeting Summaries
  - University Strategic Plan
  - University Roadmap
  - University Thematic Strategies
  - University Profile
  - UOW in Numbers
  - University Course Handbook
  - Student Guide and Prospectus

- The UOW Archives site holds a large range of records documenting the University's corporate, academic and social history.

- The UOW research online site is an open-access, institutional repository promoting the scholarly output of the University of Wollongong. Research Online holds a mixture of open-access full-text objects and metadata-only records.

If the information sought is not already available on the University's website, members of the public are encouraged to contact a Right to Information Officer to discuss the proactive release of the information that may be of interest to the public.

INFORMAL ACCESS

Members of the public can request access to information that is not available on the University's website. Where the University deems the requested information to be in the public interest to disclose, the University may treat this as an informal access application and release the information free of charge. The University may attach conditions to the release of information. There is no right of review of informal access applications.

UNIVERSITY
AUSTRALIA

Treating requests as an informal access application is at the discretion of the University. The University may require that you lodge a formal access application and pay the relevant fee (see below section relating to Formal Access applications).

If you would like to make an informal request for information, please contact the University's Right to Information Officer.

FORMAL ACCESS APPLICATION

Information that is not readily available and cannot be accessed through an informal request for information will require a formal access application to be lodged with the University.

Formal access applications will be subject to an application fee of $30. An additional processing fee of $30 per hour may also be payable. If you are requesting access to your own personal information, the first 20 hours of processing will not be charged. Some applicants may be entitled to a 50% reduction in the processing charge, where either financial hardship or a special benefit to the public exists.

When lodging a formal access application, the application must:

- be in writing and addressed to the University of Wollongong;
- be lodged with the University via email or post;
- clearly indicate that it is a formal access application;
- include the payment of the $30 application fee;
- provide the name of the applicant and either an email or postal address for correspondence in connection with the application; and
- include such information as is reasonably necessary to enable the information applied for to be identified by the University.

The University's Access Application Form (available on the University website) will assist in facilitating the collection of the required information. Applications should be either emailed to icu-enquiry@uow.edu.au, or alternatively posted to:

> Information Compliance Unit
> Level 1, Building 22,
> UNIVERSITY OF WOLLONGONG
> NSW 2522

Individuals have the right to request a review of certain decisions made by the University in response to a formal access application. A review may be conducted internally, or externally by the Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner ("IPC") or the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal. A fee of $40 applies for an internal review application. Further information regarding review rights is available on the IPC website.

EXCLUDED INFORMATION

UNIVERSITY
OF WOLLONGONG
AUSTRALIA

The GIPA Act prescribes that some information held by Universities, specifically "functions relating to dealing with information with respect to the ranking or assessment of students who have completed the Higher School Certificate for entrance into tertiary institutions", is excluded information.

This means that there is a conclusive presumption against the release of this information unless the University consents to its disclosure. In accordance with the GIPA Act, an application cannot be made to the University for access to excluded information. Consequently, the application will be deemed to be an invalid application.

ACCESS TO PERSONAL INFORMATION

In addition to the informal and formal access pathways under the GIPA Act (discussed above), individuals may also exercise their right to access their personal information under NSW privacy laws.

Personal information and health information is managed by the University in accordance with the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998 (NSW) and the Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002 (NSW). Information about the University's commitment to complying with its privacy obligations can be found at https://www.uow.edu.au/privacy/.

Members of staff who wish to obtain access to their personal staff records should contact the University's People and Culture Division via the HR Helpdesk.

Students who wish to obtain access to their personal student records should contact Student Central on 1300 275 869 or email askuow@uow.edu.au. Requests for formal academic records i.e. academic transcript, testamur and AHEGS will incur a fee. Fee information can be found on the Official Documentation and Transcripts page.

Other members of the University community who wish to obtain access to their personal or health information should contact the University's Right to Information Officer.

The University does not provide third party access to an individual's personal information without the knowledge or permission of the individual concerned unless there is a legal requirement or legal authority to do so.

RIGHT TO INFORMATION OFFICERS

Right to Information Officers are staff members who have been given authority and responsibility by the Vice Chancellor and President to meet the University's obligations under the GIPA Act.

The Vice-Chancellor has provided authority for officers located in the Office of General Counsel to manage requests for Records under the GIPA Act. Any enquiries or requests for access to information can be made to:

THE OFFICE OF THE INFORMATION AND PRIVACY COMMISSIONER (IPC)

The NSW Information and Privacy Commission (IPC) is a separate agency that administers NSW legislation dealing with privacy and access to government information.

The Information Commissioner is responsible for promoting public awareness and understanding of the GIPA Act, and providing information, support, advice, assistance and training to agencies and the general public.

Visit the IPC website for further information.

OPEN GOVERNMENT AND OPEN DATA INITIATIVES

Embedding open government and open data projects enhances transparency, accountability, and innovation within government agencies. By making data publicly accessible, these initiatives empower members of the public and support evidence-based policy development. Explore additional resource platforms such as data.nsw.gov.au or visit the IPC website for information in relation to open government, open data & public participation.
